ZERO CARBON HUB ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2012

For its 2012 Annual Conference the Zero Carbon Hub has attracted a strong speaker programme to assess progress towards the 2016 zero carbon homes target. As in 2011, the Conference will bring delegates up to speed with the latest developments and will highlight the activities crucial to successful delivery of the policy.

Paul King, Chief Executive of the UK Green Building Council and Chair of the Zero Carbon Hub, will chair the event and keynote speeches have been invited from Grant Shapps, Housing Minister, Stewart Baseley, Executive Chairman of the HBF and co-chair of the 2016 Taskforce and Mark Clare, Group Chief Executive, Barratt Developments. These speakers will set the scene for the day, review progress so far and identify what must be done to maintain momentum.

The second session of the day will examine the policy context in more detail. Neil Jefferson, Chief Executive, Zero Carbon Hub, will update delegates on the delivery of zero carbon homes definition and policy, while Paul Morrell the Government's Chief Construction Advisor, will review policies being developed for the wider built environment. Don Leiper, Director of New Business, E.ON Energy Solutions, will outline current national energy policies and their possible impacts. Peter Andrew, Land and Planning Director at Taylor Wimpey UK will take a look at how his company is dealing with the overall policy and planning landscape.

After lunch the Conference agenda looks at two areas central to successful policy delivery.

On consumer engagement, Imtiaz Farookhi, Chief Executive of NHBC, will review recent work by the NHBC Foundation which helps us to understand consumer needs and generate the right proposition for new homes purchasers. Stephen Noakes, Commercial Director at Lloyds Bank, will provide insight on the vital role of lenders. Elizabeth Ness Group Sustainability Executive, Crest Nicholson will provide an update on consumer insight from the successful AIMC4 project and Carolanne Dieleman, Group Marketing and Communications Director, Stewart Milne Group will review approaches that will be key in establishing a strong market for tomorrow's new homes.

The final session includes four speakers who are pioneering delivery of advanced standards today. Mike Chaldecott, Chair of Saint Gobain Habitat Group and Managing Director of British Gypsum, will explore supply chain innovation. Peter Youll, Managing Director, Linden Homes, will provide practical insights from real life low carbon homes delivery. Ray Morgan, Chief Executive Woking Borough Council, will highlight the important contribution that local authority planning can make, while Richard Partington Director, Richards Partington Architects, will provide a forward looking architectural perspective.

Alongside the Conference there will be an exhibition featuring products and services available to assist in the delivery of low and zero carbon homes, as well as full refreshment facilities and networking opportunities.
